

Hygienic Protection Glass Combines Aesthetics and Functionality

INDIANAPOLIS, November 5, 2020 – New dormakaba SHIELD hygienic protection glass offers permanent, long-term separation protection that maximizes safety without compromising aesthetics. SHIELD serves both sides, protecting customers and employees, while minimizing the spread of contagions and enabling connection through transparency.

SHIELD designs are easy to install, regardless of your existing layout or application. It can connect glass elements to each other or to existing surfaces, such as service counter tops, reception areas, desks and other fixtures for maximum versatility.

- Clamped Glass Fixation glass is mounted and fixed at the bottom, with free edges and sides
- Fitting Fastening via Glass Drilling glass is fixed between two columns or walls, with or without partial downward connection

“Clear protection has become an essential element in creating hygienic person-to-person interaction points,” said Curtis Massey, dormakaba Interior Glass Solutions Product Manager. “Glass offers transparency that won’t be compromised over time through discoloration, cracks, crazing or other use impacts. Our hygienic protection glass is versatile, easy to install and highly durable providing you with long-term savings.”

SHIELD offers extreme flexibility to meet a wide range of specifications for the latest market needs.

- Highly Durable – Glass is more resistant to acrylic or Plexiglas resulting in minimal long-term replacement needs.
- Easy to install and maintain – Partitions can be permanent or temporary, are assembled and installed quickly, and can endure high-frequency repeated cleaning using soap and water as well as a host of cleaning and disinfecting agents – all without surface degradation or discoloration.
- Significantly reduce contagion risk – Offers added protection by physically shielding employees from each other and customers.
- Sleek, aesthetic design – Available in multiple styles and designs that connect glass elements to each other and provide protection that will give customers and employees a greater sense of safety.
